

Robin Howlings
Chief Enthusiasm Officer
Danamark WaterCare

Robin Howlings, Owner and CEO of Danamark WaterCare, has been recognized as one of the Top 100 Women Entrepreneurs in Canadian business for the past ten years, while leading Danamark to a market-leading position in the increasingly important water filtration business.

After joining Danamark in 1978, Robin worked in all areas of the company. In a sales position representing Everpure Foodservice Products, she helped grow such accounts as McDonald's Restaurant's of Canada, The Second Cup, Cineplex, Famous Players, Shell Canada and Petro-Canada, moving Danamark to its' current pre-eminent position in the commercial foodservice point-of-use filtration field. This is illustrated by the growing roster of Danamark's foodservice clients, which include some of Canada's leading companies such as Starbucks, Van Houtte Coffee, Timothy's, Via Rail, Burger King, 7-Eleven, and Mac's Milk, to name a few.

At the Canadian Armed Forces Base in Kandahar, Afghanistan, the new and unique Tim Horton's 'outlet' also uses a premium filtration system, supplied by Danamark.

Danamark's product innovation on behalf of clients has been realized both in Canada and abroad. In addition to serving over 1300 locations in Canada, Danamark was awarded by McDonald's Restaurants for providing nearly 1000 outlets with reverse osmosis filtration systems in 2005. In 2007, Danamark was appointed as the Master Distributor for A.J. Antunes Ultrafiltration Systems in Canada. In 2012, Danamark became the very first approved Canadian vendor for Target stores foray into Canada.

In 2004, Robin assumed 100 percent ownership of the company. In 2008, Robin was a finalist in The Ernst & Yonge Entrepreneur of The Year Awards.

Robin is a past board member of MADD Canada, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, a member of the advisory board for Canada's Most Powerful Women-Top 100, The Ted Rogers School of Business Management, and a member of The International Women's Forum (IWF) and The Women's Executive Network (WXN). She is active in Ronald McDonald's House Charities, and has recently founded The Robin S. Howlings Foundation for Clean Water, in memory of her father and founder of the company.
